FAVORITES WIN IN FOUR EVENTS

Small Crowd in Attendance at Palmetto Park on "Get-away Day."

AN UNINTERESTING CARD

Lochiel Ramps Away from White Wool and Paton in the Third Race.

Charleston, S. C., March 29.—With a small crowd in attendance and an uninteresting card, the winter meeting held at Palmetto Park came to a close today. The meeting was not a financial success.

Single, at 6 to 1, and Monocacy, at 2 to 1, were the only outsiders to win. Lochiel, the best sprinter in the stable of Guy Redwell, another victory to his long string by beating White Wool and Paton in the third race. Lochiel and White Wool were almost equal favorites in the betting. Col. Cook, another consistent winner during the winter, beat Totton Field and Cherryla in the last race of the day. The summaries:

HUNT'S ERROR LOSES GAME FOR BUSINESS

Right Fielder's Slip-up Gives Government Printing Office 1 to 0 Victory.

The Government Printing Office team defeated the Business High School nine in a hard and well-played game, 1 to 0. The game would have ended in a scoreless tie but for Hunt's bad play. With a man on third and one out, the batter hit an easy grounder to him, which he threw to first, thinking it was two out.

The features of the game were Murdock's pitching and Wilson's batting. Score:

CONNIE MACK'S STAR.

JACK McINNIS. The classy young first baseman of the Philadelphia Athletics, who is expected to enjoy the greatest season of his career the coming summer. McInnis is one of the mainstays of Connie Mack's machine, and is the right man for the first corner of the greatest infield in the game. He is a sure fielder, equipped with a rapid thinker. His specialty is outguessing an opposing pitcher, but can also be depended upon to slam the ball to safe territory when a hit means something.

TO CATCH FOR BUSINESS.

MAGNUS WOOD, Premier hitter of the Business High School ball team, who has been shifted behind the plate by Coach White.

JAKE STAHL ONCE LOST HIS ANGORA

Hot Springs, Ark., March 29.—Dark, windy day. Well, Tacks' sign for a curve ball was to show his teeth, and when he went out of his way to exhibit that set of molars he certainly was a picture.

"To make matters worse Lattimore's specialty was signing for curves. Either that or it was just natural for the pitcher to believe that that was what he was prescribing. There, his two huge ears stuck out from under his mask. I never will forget the first time Tacks caught me. I laughed every time I looked at him and walked the first three batters and then beamed the next two. My nanager came out for a confab and I told him either had to take me or Tacks caught me. I drew the pass to the bench. A dirty trick into our grand stand one day when Tacks was catching. The bases were full in the pinch and Tacks' ears fairly stood on their ends.

"After the game," I asked the son of Ham, "Please tell me Tacks' ears back so I can see de infield." It was the funniest crack I ever heard and a request the rest of those in the grandstand seconded.

"It was down in New Orleans, when I was playing on the Little Rock team," chimed in Col. Speaker. "That old Harry Matthews went up in the pinch one afternoon. He always could drive the ball a mile—when he hit it—but was never sure to connect. Mattie was just as liable to strike out as bump the ball, but any time he rapped it he drove was generally good for a couple of bases. He was up this day with the bases filled and the Pelicans needing three runs to make the score a tie.

BIRMINGHAM BARBER MIXES BASEBALL WITH HIS LATHER

Billy Phelon, the baseball writer of the Cincinnati Times-Star, breaks loose with the following:

The Reds are awestricken, bewildered, overwhelmed, and all by the Baseball Barber of Birmingham! He is a quiet little barber—except when ball players are in his chair—and then he shows himself a master of baseball legend and of authentic history—a marvel—a wonder—a man to whom the ablest statisticians could go and gather pearls. Tom Clarke went into his barber shop the other day, and straightaway the barber started in:

"Ah, Mr. Clarke—hope you will have a good season! Too bad you broke that leg last fall. At that, you hit better than you ever did before. I'm sorry Keefe isn't with you—he was your regular pitcher up at Montreal, wasn't he?"

BITS OF BASEBALL

SPORT—ADD BITS OF BASEBALL. Benny Myers, last year with Toronto, has joined the Brooklyn team after holding out.

The Yankees will leave Bermuda for home this week.

Charley Comiskey killed a canard with these words: "I'll release Fournier to Sacramento the same day I sell Ed Walsh to another minor league club."

Stahl and Clarke figure that one big advantage of the winter at Hot Springs was the keeping up of both teams to fighting pitch by the time the season started.

Joe Tinker has ordered all his Reds to abstain from smoking until the end of the 1913 season.

McGraw has obliged himself to follow a hands-off policy in regard to umpires again this year.

The reports of major league teams are now preparing for their annual squints of the college lines.

Rube Oldring has been dealt a minor league pitcher that the Athletics have faced this spring.

Outfielder Capron, of the Pittsburgh, is the man who was picked as all-Western quarterback when playing on the University of Minnesota team. His greatest asset is tremendous speed.

Well, maybe the Reds didn't show up the first opportunity McGraw gave him.

Mayor Underwood of Fayetteville, N. C., says his city will build a big ball park if by so doing it can reduce unemployment.

PHILLES AGAIN BITE THE DUST

Fred Morgan was over the plate. On the seventh, when Sherwood Magee drove to the left field bleachers for a triple, and crossed the plate while Morgan and Gandil were retiring Dolan.

Eddie Foster was feeling more like himself before the game than in several days, and the midday was permitted to do business at his old stand. Ray Morgan was played at second in place of Frank Laporte.

NOTES OF THE GAME.

It was like getting money from home without writing for it.

Clark Moore reminded the fans of Dixie Walker. There was a lot of stuff, and showed the best of the Phillies.

No sooner had Danny Muller come to bat in the Nationals' first inning than some "ret" in the crowd yelled: "You're a ret!"

Ripps Williams is getting base hits regularly these days. He came through with two bases yesterday out of three times up.

Bill Killefer, the Phillies' catcher, is a great admirer of Eddie Alonzo, and paid the Philadelphia 1st baseman a compliment after the game.

When Max Baer, Jr. came to bat, Walter started out by giving the big pitcher three balls in succession, then came down as quickly as the other did and hit his first out his shoulder.

Johnny Evers, the Phillies' shortstop, was out on a base on one and one-half.

Hege Lohr, a "dancer" in the fourth, and the big pitcher, who was out on a base on one and one-half.

Capron, who hit for Moore in the fifth, and was retired on strikes, is the famous University of Minnesota football and track star. Capron, according to the stories circulating with the Phillies, is a coming good fielder, but has yet to make a safe hit in an exhibition game.

In the third inning, with Mink on second and Foster on the lead, Clark Gandil came to bat. Gandil swung and missed, and Clark Dolan walked out to him and whispered something in his ear. Clark was given a base on balls. Dolan played against the Nationals while a member of the New York Highlanders last summer and knows what Gandil was doing.

Manager Davis went behind the bat when Brock started the inning.

The Phillies kept on a running fire of abuse at Eddie Alonzo, and named him for missing a lot of strikes. It's the old story, a hour is always riding.

Lohr, the Phillies' first baseman, and Clark Gandil, of the Nationals, are exactly the same height.

By the way, is some new lawman.

Nick Altman came through with two strong, and wrestling pantomime. Hans Lohr laughed till the tears ran down his cheeks, and it was a good thing that he was not in his direction while Nick was pulling off his stuff.

Alonzo did some tall spinning on his heels in the fourth. The ball shot into left field and rolled back, but Alonzo pulled up just before the ball could be caught.

Which Gandil came through with a double in the second inning, but never reached the plate.

Magee is shaking the left side spring. Sherwood grabbed three out of four Friday and two out of four yesterday.

Roped a Mountain Lion.

Montrose (Colo.) Dispatch to Philadelphia Public Ledger.

An immense mountain lion, the largest ever captured in this part of the country, was caught in a most sensational manner by Uri Hotchkiss, a famous hunter and trapper, of Colorado, six miles east of that place.

Hotchkiss heard of the lion, and in company with his son George, and another companion, he started out with a pack of dogs. The dogs struck the trail and treed the lion. Hotchkiss climbed a tree in which the lion was clinging, armed only with a rope. The lion chased him down the tree several times, but finally Hotchkiss got within about three feet of him and threw the rope around his neck.

The men on the other end of the rope attempted to pull the lion out of the tree, but were unable to do so. Hotchkiss worked around behind the lion and twisted his tail until the lion was hanging by his tail, and weighed 146 pounds.

HERE'S WESTERN'S LEADER.

Frank declares that the P. L. is down to 183 pounds, and is as fast around first and on bases as in the season of 1908.

The way Lohr's escaped and snipped the grass cutters around short base was very pleasing to the New York owner.

An examination of the bats used by the Hilltoppers disclosed the fact that Chance's was the heaviest and unguessed the lightest.

Should the Broadway boys "halt" the first division, the New York American magazine will be pleased, at least so he says.

The Yankee recruits are keeping their eyes glued to the "ax" these days, as the time for the home trip approaches.

Dahlen has suspended union rules for the present in camp, and the boys are on the job about twelve hours per day.

TWO BOUTS ARE SCHEDULED HERE

Galvin Meets Pardello and Krosso Tackles Al Maupas.

KILONIS WILL TRAIN

Greek Says He Can Beat Turner if Given Good Rest Before the Match.

Two good wrestling bouts are scheduled for this city this week. Leo Pardello, the rough Italian grappler, meets Jim Galvin at the Lyceum Tuesday night, and as Galvin has a reputation for being a fast and tough grappler, the match should be well worth seeing.

Pardello is booked to arrive in Washington late tonight and will work out tomorrow afternoon at a local gymnasium. He will go on the mat with Galvin trained to the minute, and the fans are promised one of the fastest bouts of the year.

Emile Krosso is a newcomer to local mat fans, but is well known up North. He makes his home in Springfield, Mass., and has defeated some of the best light heavyweights in the game today. Last night he pinned Jim Harnes to the mat, straight falls in Springfield, in 2 and 5 minutes, respectively. He will arrive in this city tomorrow night and will work out Tuesday afternoon at the National Guard gymnasium.

John Kilonis, the Greek grappler, who was defeated by Joe Turner at the Lyceum Friday night, after working more than 2 hours without a fall being registered, left last night for Manchester, N. H., where he will go in training on his farm, in preparation for another bout with Turner.

"I think I can beat Turner if I can go on the mat rested. I worked hard with Harnes last Wednesday night, and did not have long enough to rest up. I am not making excuses, as Turner beat me with the top-hat, but I can only say that I did my best," said Kilonis.

Should Kilonis go into training, and then come here to meet Turner, the match would be well worth seeing.

AL MAUPAS, THE TURK GRAPPLER, WILL MEET KROSSO AT THE GAIETY WEDNESDAY NIGHT.

Al Maupas, the wrestler who will meet Krosso at the Gaiety Wednesday night, has been after Joe Turner for some little time, and the local boy will have to give him a chance. Maupas is a little heavier than Turner, but Joe has not cut the ban on a few pounds in the past, and will not do so now. Manager Peck will hardly work Turner this week, as the match Wednesday night will be an expensive one, and will not allow the staging of a bout of Friday.

All Hassan, the Turk grappler who was injured in his match with Lou Scroggins at the Lyceum last Wednesday night, is again in fair shape, and anxious to take on any of the wrestlers now in town. Hassan is one of the roughest men in the game, and one who will stop at nothing to gain a fall. Montana has been after Hassan for some little time, and as soon as Montana regains his health, will be matched with the Turk at one of the local theaters.

Worshippers Whistle Hymns.

A novel feature was introduced in the special services for men held at the Wharton Street Memorial Methodist Episcopal Church, E. W. Stillman, pastor, by the whistling of hymns by the congregation. The effect was not impressive, but when "Onward, Christian Soldiers" was started a vigorous and pleasing rendition of the martial hymn was given. The whistling of hymns was adopted, because it makes a more popular appeal than singing, for all cannot sing, but all can whistle. That this new feature has proved popular was evidenced by the large number attending the services, and it is probable that it may be continued at the men's meetings.

If Charley gets the 25,000 crowd, as expected, the "vanishing bleachers" at Ebbets Field may become more than a myth.
